THE PRESIDENTIAL QUESTION.

A Talk With John Quincy Adams.

His Views on the Political Situation and the New Departure-Ku Klux Bill-General Grant and His Renomination-The Democratic Candidacy-The True Issues of the Next Presidential Campaign-State Polities-The Radical Muddle-Class lin, Butler, Loring, Jewell-The Geneva Arbitrator.

[From the Boston Post, July 15.7]
Impressed with the idea that in view of the general condition of the political horizon, nationally and locally considered, and perfectly well aware that John Quincy Adams, the gallant standard bearer of the democracy of Massachusetts for the past three years, was a gentleman of positive opinions and convictions, one of our reporters visited Quincy a day or two since for the purpose of laying those opinions before the readers of the Post, should that gentleman be willing so to do. Our representative found Mr. Adams in his office, busily engaged with his clients, his usually florid countenance bronzed and burned by the sun, doubtless the effect of his out-door labor, of which he has done considerable upon his broad and fertile acres that overlook the surrounding country. Those with whom he had pusiness having departed our correspondent at once made known the

OBJECT OF HIS VISIT.

BEFORTER—I have called upon you, Mr. Adams, to hold a little talk on the political situation.

Mr. ADAMS—You mean, I take it, that in this dead season you want something to enliven your paper, and so take to surring up the animals in the political managerie.

REPORTER—Well, yes; and as our republican friends were interviewing their leading men, I thought a little sound democratic doctrine would do no harm.

Mr. ADAMS—Well, I make no pretensions to lead anybody; but I am always willing to state sound Anisons were interviewing their leading men, I thought a little sound democratic doctrine would do no harm.

Mr. Adams—Well, I make no pretensions to lead anybody; but I am always willing to state sound democratic doctrine, as I understand it, for any one who may think it worth his while to listen to me, and I do not know why it is any more objectionable to be "interviewed" out of one's sentiments than it is to state them in a stamp speech. In lact, the somewhat illicit character of the "interview" somewhat illicit character of the "interview" than is accorded to the more formal speech.

Reforter—To speak of piatforms, I suppose you give your adhesion to the so-called new departure of our friends in the western and aiddie States?

Mr. Adams—Why, yes, sir; but the new departure of a very old departure with me. I think it was two years ago that we democrats in Massachusetts at Worcester "departed" i remember making a speech there, which is doubtless deservedly forgotien, of which the only part I can recail was an express acceptance of the situation. The resolutions, if I do not mistake, were explicit in that sense. In fact, I see nothing in the amendments themselves, apart from their procurement, which need distress any democrat. The fair purport and upshot of them is merely to give equal civil rights and unpartial political privileges to all men, irrespective of color.

NEGRO SUFFRAGE.

REPORTER—You don't, then, consider giving the blacks equal privileges with the whites as undemocratic?

Mr. Adams—No, sir. When the war closed upon our entranchised black people—freed, you must denocratic?

Mr. Adams—No, sir. When the war closed upon our entranchised black people—freed, you must remember, by a stress of circumstances brought on as much by their masters as by us—we had either to Accopt them as citizens or hold them in some non-descript condition of pupilage. The latter would they have resulted in a far more dangerous extension of the paternal powers of government than anything in these amendments. Besides which it was more consonant to Mr. Jefferson's favorite definition of democracy—"the right of each to pursue happiness in his own way, provided only he respect his neighbor's equal right." Squal right."

REPORTER—But you do not consider the negroes

Reporter.—But you do not consider the negroes at for suffrage?

Mr. Adams.—Certainly not; and I was very sorry that it was forced upon the poor creatures in the wholesale way it was. It endangers their losing it altogether. The misgovernment in the southern States is a fearful impeachment or the attempt to found republican government upon middlated ignorance. But it has been done, and I would not undo it. I would modify it.

THERE'S THE RUE.

Reporter.—But there's the rub. Will not the acceptance of the amendments prevent any modification?

Mr. Adams.—Why, no, I think not. It must be applied impartially, but any reform in that regard which is possible at all is as possible with as without them. We in Massachusetts distrancinse, they tell me.

by constitutional prerequisites to voting, such as taxpaying and reading and writing. Surely such to vote. Their adoption in South Carolina would reduce the constituency there to a very manageable shape, I can tell you. Their adoption in a slave-holding State would insure good government. Now, in the

LAST SESSION
of our Legislature, Massachusetts refused to modify her constitution in the respect I have indicated, although it was irged that these two qualifications were infractions of the fourteenth amendment, and it must be presumed that a Legislature which had only about forty disloyal men in it must have so acted only because the party that made the four-feenth amendment did not taink that bither of these requirements in our constitution at all infringed its provisions.

were electations of the provisions.

Resource But about the Ku Klux bill of the last Congress, 1su't that measure a long step in the direction of a forced construction of the amendments in favor of the radical party?

Mr. Adams—Ah, now you touch the rub of the whole matter. Just as the republican party cannot see anything unfriendly to their own amendments in this state or in known as the Ku Klux haw as legitimate exercise of power under some of these new amendments. In lact, we have now got tartend to mean. Now this is inevitable. There is no sense that they are, in fact, just what they are constructed to mean. Now this is inevitable. There is no sense in crying over it. The Ku Klux bill, for instance, seems to mean of the whole principle of free government. Indicating control of the Whole prin of the whole principle of free government. Indeed, as a bald truth, and netween us, the Election bill and the Ku Kink bill, for instance, seems to me.

An Absolute surrender.

of the whole principle of free government. Indeed, as a bald truth, and netween us, the Election bill and the Ku Kink bill together actually place in the President's hands every legal power that any man who had the will coniid desire to raise himself to empire. You look surprised, but it is interally and precisely as 1 say. Control over the army to regulate elections, and absolute power to imprison by military force without habeas corpus, is supreme and unimited despotism in possibility. Yet a great mass of honest men see no harm in all this, and regard it merely as a proper exercise of delegated power under the amendments.

REPORTER—What, therefore, is your inference from this view of the subject?

Mr. Adams—My interence is that any party in this country which really desires to re time the moderate method of government and tone down from the dangerous tate at when we have been going should not be greatly distressed by any amendments to the constitution which have yet been passed; for by any fair e anstinedon they need never be known by any State, which would be confect to deal with absolute importality between man and man. And that is demogracy.

FRETRUE DEMOCRATIC POLICY.

REPORTEN—But what would be your policy toward the newly-cafranchisod race of the South?

Mr. ADAMS—The democratic party should have no Mr. ADAMS—The democratic perty should have no negro policy any more than a German policy or an Irish policy. There can be but one democratic policy—the United States policy—and that should be equal and exact justice to every chizen.

GENERAL GRANT'S RENOMINATION.

REFORTER—I suppose you think General Grant will receive a renomination at the hands of the responsible and the suppose you then the proposition of the responsible and the suppose of the suppose you then the suppose you the suppose you then the supp will receive a renomination at the mans of the re-publican party?

Mr. ADANS—Undoubtedly, Mr. Grant will be re-nominated, and the issue of the next canvass will be upon his administration. Now the power of the patronage of our government is enormous at pre-sent, and the discipline of the republican party is generally superb; but it can : ardly carry such a pean weight as that. The duil incompetence and stolid ignorance of the President, his shameless nepotism and partiality to gifts, his unclusing negligence of duit, may all be glossed over, for we all feel kindly to the man who missined the war; but the DISGRACKPUL INCOMPETENCE of the financial management of affairs should be impardonable by a people supposed to be as shrewd as ours on that head.

THE ISSUE OF THE CAMPAION.

REPORTER—The issue you would make, then, is one of revenue reform and its kindred subjects?

Mr. ADAIS—The democratic financial policy must be squarely in the direction of free trade and a general reduction of taxation. The shameful ignorance which has persisted in wringing such enormous sums from the people at such a cruical time, when they needed all their energy to raby from the exhaustion of the war, is far less pardonable in my eyes than this negro policy. I saw that in his admirable letter to the Tammany Society, ave the case which ought to be and will be followed. That letter and the equally admirable letter of Governor Hoffman foreshadow the line to be taken.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.

REPORTER—What is your opinion in regard to democratic candidates for the Presidency?

Mr. ADAIS—It is high time to consider that matter. My own view is that the locality will dictate candidates. The atrength of the democracy is and must be in the West and South. New York and Missouri are secure for our right and left wings. The large of war will be in this west and south. New York and Missouri are secure for our right and left wings. The large of war will be in the west and south. Persylvania and Virginia. I think the centidates upon the tecket should come from those parts. I have myself a night regard for GOVERNOR HOFFMAN, and he is also a ver, strong candidate—probably sure of the succession if the party should provail next time; but I think he is too wise a man to allow aimself to be pressed in the next Convention.

REPORTER-In regard to our own tocal politics:

the radical situation is becoming interesting, don't you think?

Mr. Adams—About the tricks of Massachusetts radical politicians I know nothing and care less. I see that they are bent on squeezing out my good friend Governor Claffin, who is at least honest, and are pulling all their wires to put in Dr. Loring. That great and good man, General Builer, has been Making the Running for the Doctor, and between the pair of them it is hard if they can't have the Governorship. For my part, I think that there are as good men in that party as the Doctor, though I admit him to be an industrious, fine-mannered, pleasaut and capable man. Besides, he has made himself very agreeable to the farmers, and he has many friends. He is very anxious to have the nomination, and I am sure I hope he may get it, if he can manage it. You know it know it may get it, it he can manage it. You know it makes no difference to us who it is. But besides him I see Speaker Jewell spoken of, and he is an able and a good man, and I think he would make an excellent Governor. So would President Cooledge, for that matter, an admirable one. Judge Hoar, a really great and able man, would be their best man; but, of course, he would not take it. However, my own belief is, that the clique which really will finally compel Governor Cladin to run again, pledges or no pledges, in order to avoid trouble, and that he will be nominated and elected, of course.

and that he will be nominated and elected, of course.

REPORTER—But the western part of the State, headed by the Springfield Republican, will make a bitter fight against Loring.

MR. ADAMS—Oh, yes; but the Republican fights for its own hand, very naturally, and is toyal to its own part of the State, which, by the by, has not been much considered in radical politics of late years. But if I am wrong about Governor Claffin, then Dr. Loring will get the nomination, unless he is much less smart than I suppose him to be. If he fails he will be a frightful example of a misspent life and wasted time.

REPORTER—In the event of Loring's nomination will the prohibitionists take him?

MR. ADAMS—They ought to, for he is a first rate prohibitionist; which I understand to be a man who thinks it right to take what he wants himself, but deems it a sin in his neighbor to do likewise.

REPORTER—I suppose, Mr. Adams, you will be in the hands of your triends in the approaching campaign?

MR. ADAMS—I have no friends that I am aware of.

the hands of your friends in the approaching campaign?
Mr. Adams—I have no friends that I am aware of, and if I had I never put myself in anybody's hands. Not a soul has whispered a word to me about a nomination for anything since last fall, and I imagine no one will until next fall. I believe it is known to the few who care in the least to learn it, that I should be neartily glad to get out of the way, if any one will take the place whom the party wants. So much being known, the Convention, when it meets, will think it over and being known, the Convention, when it meets, wilthink it over and think it over and DO AS THEY LIKE.

The nomination is a great compliment, and as such I have always felt protoundly grateful for it; but I have no desire for its repetition.

ONE QUESTION MORE.

REPORTER—There is one other matter, Mr. Adams, which I wish to mention, inasmuch as considerable has been said about it in the newspapers. It is in regard to the probable appointment of your distinguished father as the representative of this country at Geneva, to arbitrate upon the matters contained in the recent Washington treaty.

Mr. Adams—I have seen something about it in the papers, but so far as I know there is nothing in it. Indeed, if I may be allowed to say so about a near relative, I think that there is one conclusive proof of the falsity of the rumor that such an appointment has been made by General Grutt, which is that it is probably by general consent the best one be could make.

make.

REPORTER—I believe that is all, Mr. Adams, and I wish you good morning.

Mr. Adams—Good morning, sir.

A "NEW DEPARTURE" OF THE HARLEM DEMOCRACY.

For months past a casual observer could not fail to perceive the number of "Tween Clubs," "Tweed Societies," &c., that have been organized throughout the various wards; but it was reserved for the democracy of the upper portion of the island (i. e., in Hariem) to conceive the idea of giving a new direction to the political current which flows so rapidly from the Battery to Kingsbridge. Several prominent residents of the Twelfth ward have formed themselves into an organization known as the "William M. Tweed Literary Association," and have established their headquarters at 208 East 120th street, the former abiding place of the defunct

120th street, the former abiding place of the defunct "Washington Club."

The object of the association, as its constitution informs us, is "to promote the social and men'al culture of its members and the promulgation of democratic principles"—objects to be attained by the formation of a library and reading room, by lectures and debates on the prominent political issues of the day. They propose to furnish from their own ranks speakers during the coming campaign if required—in fact, to gather into their fold all the democratic intelligence that lies dormant in the upper districts.

From the list of officers given below the democracy of the Twelfth and adjacent wards will readily see the material is of the best, and we predict a successful career for the pioneer association of its kind. The members compose some of the solid men of Harlem—property owners, builders, confractors, lawyers, &c. At a meeting heid on Thursday evening the gentlemen named below were elected officers:

John M. Coman (clerk to Judge Dowling), President.

John H. Williams (President Board of Excise),

We, the undersigned members of the bar of the city and county of San Francisco, earnestly recommend to the eactors of the Fifteenth Judical district of this State, and to all minimating concentions, the Hon. Sampel H. Dwinche for reflection as District Judge of that district. He at once units the high quantities of learning, impartially and their rivers system and despatch, as well as urbanity and courtesy to all. The public interest, in our opinion, demands his reflection.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20, 1871. This is signed by no less than 216 lawyers; in fact, it is the manimous expression of the bar of san Francisco of respect for a man who, both in his private and official character, is beyond reproach.

ROBBERY IN PLUSHING.

The house of Colonel Higgins, on Whitestone avenue, in the village of Flushing, was robbed of $400 worth of jewelry on Thursday night. A domesthe in the family was arrested on suspicion, and although there was no proof against her and she being sick, she was kept confined in a dirty cell for twenty-four hours. Officer Smith believes the robbery to have been committed by sneak thieves, many of whom infest the place.

The Gold Room was dull and adjourned at an early hour in the afternoon. The market was strong on a small decline in five-twentics in London, and the impulse thus given was intensided by the large specie shipments of the week, the facrease in the imports for the same time, and the small amount of specie in the banks. The course of the market is shown in the table:-

STOCKS DULL AND STEADY. The stock market opened strong, and prices at the early call were the best of the day. Subsequently the Improvement was lost, and a decline set in, but the fluctuations between extreme points were unimportant and transactions were very light. JEFFERSON MARKET POLICE COURT.

A diminutive specimen of the genus puer made his appearance in Jefferson Market Police Court, before Justice Shandley, yesterday morning, in charge of an officer, accused by Solomon P. Rosner, of 503 Sixth avenue, of trying to steal from his till seventy dollars last Friday afternoon.

The till had an alarm belt attached, and its ringing attracted the attention of Solomon, who was in the back room. Running into the store he saw the little gamin skedadding, and securing him handed him over to an officer. the prisoner, who gave his name as Thomas Williams, aged nine years, was held for examination.

Michael Holland was arraigned yester/lay at Jefforson Market Police Court for beating his wife in a shameful and brutal manner because she had a treacherous memory. Brisget this wife) made a sight mistake, and retired to rest in a bed not occupied by her liege lord, but by some one clee of the same sex as Michael. Brutget orcsented a horrible appearance, the result of the beating she had received, merely because she made a slight mistake about her resting place for the night. Michael was given an opportunity to get rid of his anger in a quiet little retreat, without any one to disturb him or interrupt his reactions.

Mary Hamilton, a domestic at No. 57 West Thirty-ninth street, made her appearance at Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday, and with a renarkably serious cast o. conalenance, and with an extremely youthle tongue, charged Thomas Cook with having stolen three dresses, a hoop skirt and a white skirt, valued at twenty dollars, which sae had entrusted to him for safe keeping. Thomas, who was a shorthaired, "gray"-looking young "feller," denied the soft impeachment. He was locked up, however. ferson Market Police Court for beating his wife in a
